

FINLEY AUDIO launches new products at Capital Audiofest 2019

After years of development, testing, and rigorous evaluation, several new products will be made available this November.

PITTSBURGH, PA, Oct. 29, 2019 – Finley Audio, a manufacturer of after-market, high-quality home audio accessories, announced today the largest product launch to date with the release of multiple cables within their Cirrus and Stratus lineups. The Cirrus RCA, XLR, and Phono cables will be debuting alongside the previously available Cirrus power cables in the Robyatt Audio room at this year’s Capital Audio Fest on November 1st - 3rd.

Additionally, the entire entry-level Stratus line debuts with an RCA, XLR, Phono, and power cable. These cables are engineered toward the first-time cable customer to exceed expected performance, deliver true high-end quality, but at down-to-earth pricing.

“We are very proud to have our first product, the Cirrus power cable, be used by Robyatt Audio when they received the best sound award at the New York Audio Show 2018,” said Daniel Halchak, one of the four founding partners of Finley Audio. “Plus, we are very excited to expand the Cirrus tier to a full product line. Along with this, we are releasing our entry level line, Stratus, to show people what improvements can be heard over a stock cable. Giving back to the audio community is the main purpose of Finley Audio. We strive to produce products that perform well above their price points and making high-end accessible to everyone. That’s what I’m really excited about!”

And from founding partner, Billy Hanna, “Just to have played a part in what my talented and passionate group of partners have accomplished is truly satisfying. But bringing a product to market with this level of quality and performance at this price point is unheard of in my experience. It easily meets the definition of ‘disruptive’.”

About Finley Audio, Ltd.

Established to “pay forward” to audio enthusiasts by audio enthusiasts, Finley Audio is dedicated to designing and producing products that exceed the customers' needs while delivering value and quality beyond expectations and creating a kindred atmosphere with personal service.

www.finleyaudio.com

Facebook: Finley Audio

Twitter: @FinleyAudio

Instagram: @Finleyaudio

###